Edinburgh, Friday, February 6, 1747.

From the London Gazette, Jan. 31.

Naples, Jan. 10. N.S.

ON the 4th instant the Canons Giordano and Ruggiero departed from this City for Rome, in consequence of the Notification they had received from the Court to leave this Kingdom, as Ministers of the Tribunal of the Inquisition established by the Cardinal Archbishop, repugnant to the King's Jurisdiction. The same Day arrived here from Marseilles the Marquis Truppi, Major General of the King of Spain's Forces, who it is said is to command the 10 Battalions of Spanish Troops, Part of which are already arrived from the Coast of Spain and Provence in this Kingdom. On the 5th, 6th and 9th inst. anchored in this Port from Marseilles and the Coast of Provence 9 Transport Vessels, 4 of which had on board 200 mounted Dragoons out of the Regiments of Horse Tarragona and Rouffillon, and the other 5 about 1000 Men out of the Spanish Regiments of Foot, Soria and la Reine.

Rome, Jan. 14. On the 9th instant the new Venetian Ambassador had his first private Audience of the Pope, to which he was introduced by the Secretary of State. On the 10th Cardinal Alexander Albani had a long private Audience of the Pope, to communicate to him the Commission he had received from the Court of Vienna. Fresh Disagreements have lately arisen between this Court and that of Naples; on the Prohibition which the latter has caused to be notified to the Archbishops and Bishops of the two Sicilies, to suppress their Tribunals of Inquisition, and not to challenge, for the future, any Persons, either Ecclesiastical or Secular, without the Knowledge and Approbation of the Government.

From Wye's Letter, London, Jan. 31.

An Express is hourly expected with an Account of the Defeat of Marshal Belleisle by General Brown.

The Lord Chancellor being indisposed, the Lord Chief Justice Lee officiated for him Yesterday as Speaker of the House of Peers.

The Duke's Regiment was reviewed To-day by his Majesty, and they will embark about the Beginning of next Week for Flanders.

From the St. James's Evening Post, Jan. 31.

Hague, Jan. 24. O. S. The freshest Advices from Paris, differ very much in the Accounts they give of the Pretender's eldest Son. Some say, he is gone to Avignon, in his Way to Italy; and others, that he arrived at Boulogne, on the 14th inst. O. S. These last Letters add, that his Partizans express great Satisfaction on the Removal of the Marquis d'Argenson, and on the Orders for equipping a Fleet at Brest, tho' most People are of Opinion, the Squadron there will sail for the West-Indies.

We learn by private Letters from Germany, that the Margrave of Baden-Dourlach has lately made publick Profession of the Romish Religion, in order to espouse the Princess and Heiress of Baden-Baden, the Head of that Family; and the same Letters say, that this Piece of News being mentioned at the Table of one of the Ecclesiastical Electors of the Empire, his Serene Highness thereupon let fall the following remarkable Expression; "This, without doubt, is an Advantage to our Religion; but I am very confident, that it will not be long before the World hears of the Conversion of a much greater Prince, whose Conduct and Example may have more extensive Consequences than can be immediately foreseen."

Plymouth, Jan. 27. This Evening came in the Grand Turk Man of War, which hath taken and brought in the Tarragone, a French Privateer of St. Malo's, of twenty four Guns, all Six-Pounders. She hath since the War taken 31 Prizes. Her Station was generally off Scilly. She hath taken this Cruise a Ship from Boston, and one from Leghorn. Came in the Charming Peggy from Philadelphia for Leith, and the Terrible of Liverpool, with 400 Hogheads of Sugar, from St. Christopher's.

Weymouth, Jan. 28. Yesterday arrived in Portland Road the Otter Sloop of War, from whom we hear, that on the 26th inst. off Lyme, they saw 3 Sail standing to the Southward, one of which was thought to be his Majesty's Sloop the Horner, Capt. Callier, the other a large Storeship, and the third a French Privateer, who had taken them both: Which seems to be out of Dispute, for when the Otter hoisted her Colours, they answered by hoisting a French Flag.

LONDON, Jan. 31.

When the Spanish Plenipotentiary took Leave of the French King, in order to go with M. du Thiel to Breda, the King declared, that should the Austrians be drove out of Provence, he would put himself at the Head of his Army in the Low Countries; and if not, he would command his Army in Provence, provided a Peace did not take Place.

The Store Ship said from Weymouth to be taken, is supposed to be the King William, having on board about 112 Pieces of Cannon, &c. and valued at 50,000 Sterl.

From the London Evening Post, Jan. 31.

LONDON, Jan. 31.

Letters from Leghorn inform us, that a great many Officers belonging to the combin'd Army in Provence, are arrived at Alaffio in Sardinia, where they have taken up all the Vessels that could be found for the Transportation of Hay and Straw to the said Army, together with 16000 Sacks of Grain, which the King of Sardinia has given Leave to be carried out of that Island.

There are Letters from Vienna dated January 21. which say, that they had received two very different and opposite Accounts from Italy, of the State of Affairs in Genoa. According to the first, the Peasants had abandoned the Post of the Bochetta, at the Approach of the Austrians, and fled to the City, where at first they created a good deal of Confusion; but at last the Inhabitants turned out those that were most timorous, and incorporated the rest into the City Regiments, declaring, they were ready to treat with the Imperial General, if he had full Powers for that Purpose, or to repel Force by Force, if he came purely to attack them.

The other Account is, that 8 Spanish Battalions in flat bottom'd Vessels, had with much Difficulty entered the Port of Genoa; and that several Spanish and Neapolitan Officers were gone Post thither from Rome, which News however merits Confirmation; tho' it is publicly said at Court, that if it proves true, it may rather contribute to hasten than to retard the Surrender of the Place, by increasing the Divisions that already reign among the People, and augmenting the Number of Mouths, which must render that Scarcity that is already severely felt, absolutely insupportable.

They write from Brussels, that since the Arrival of General Count Lowendahl from Paris, several Measures have been taken, which seem to indicate an early Campaign; but it is remarkable that this Officer holds no Councils of War, but issues his Orders in the same Manner as the Count de Saxe, and probably in pursuance of the Instructions he has received from that General. They are raising in Flanders, or rather mounting a Regiment of German Horse, which is to consist of 800 Men, and is to be commanded by the Count de Frazena, a Swede.

At a Court of Common Council held on Thursday at Guildhall, it was unanimously resolved to prefer a Petition against the Bill now depending in Parliament, for the Naturalization of foreign Protestants, and recommended to the Lord Mayor, from his distinguished Zeal for the Liberties of his Fellow-Citizens, to have the same presented with the utmost Expedition.

On Thursday Sir Robert Rich's Regiment of Dragoons, the Welch Fusiliers, and the two Battalions of Foot Guards, and some other Regiments, began to embark at Woolwich and Gravesend, for Flanders.

We hear that his Royal Highness the Duke has appointed Major Caroline Scot to be one of his Aid-de-camps.

Fifty Pieces of fine Artillery have been already shipped for the Army in Flanders.

And on Thursday 230 Miströles, and others belonging to the Train, embarked at Woolwich, and fell down the River to Gravesend.

Yesterday the Yachts, fell down the River, in order to proceed for Harwich to take on board his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland.

A few Days since the Right Hon. the Countess of Cromartie was brought to Bed of a dead Male Child, at her Apartments in the Tower.

An Order is gone down to Scotland to bring up about 60 Witnesses to be examined in behalf of Lord Lovat, at his Trial, a List of which has been delivered.

From the General Evening Post, Jan. 31.

LONDON, Jan. 29.

They write from the Hague, that by some Papers found in the Pockets of one of the principal Genoese Rebels who fell in the Attack of the Bochetta, it appears the Insurrection was concerted before the Austrians passed the Var, and from many Circumstances it was suspected the Senate was deeply engaged therein.

'Tis reported that the Marshal Duke de Noailles is speedily expected here from the Court of France.

Archibald Currie, Wright in the Shire of Galloway, is remitted by the Lords of Session to the Justiciary, it being found proven, that he forged and uttered Notes of the Royal Bank of Scotland, knowing them to be false.

Yesterday Forenoon at Ten, betwixt 50 and 60 Boys and near an equal Number of Girls, belonging to the Charity-Workhouse of this City, (all uniformly clothed with the Manufacture of the House, and carrying Specimens in their Hands of the several Branches of useful Trade they are employed in,) being drawn up into two Lines on each Side of the Entry to the inner Parliament-House, paid their Respects in the most engaging Manner to the Right Hon. the Lords of Session as they were passing to the House, who seemed to be highly satisfied with the Appearance of the Orphans and the virtuous Method of bringing them up; especially as they are now in a fair Way of being useful Members of Society, and not Burdens to the Publick, as in all Probability they would have been, if a Charity-Workhouse had not been set on Foot. The Orphans afterwards went in Procession thro' the Town, and were received by the Citizens with sensible Marks of Approbation and Pleasure.

The Roads being so deep, the London Post came not in till 7 o'Clock Yesternight.
